Colored People Are Having a Carnival Near Cate's Mill.

The colored people are having a first beyond the city limits. First Ninth street this week, and the show "The White City" where are several attractions in way of pay shows, besides the various refreshment stands. The carnival has been largely attended and a creditable parade was given Thursday.

RELIEVED OF SPIDER CANCER

Henry C. Richards Under Treatment of Dr. Hartley.

SUCCESSFUL REMOVAL.

Growth Came Out After Ten Days of Plaster Treatment.

For more than 30 years Mr. Henry C. Richards has been a sufferer from a cancer on the left side of his upper lip. Until recently it was little more than a pimple concealed in his moustache. A few years ago it began to grow and the more it was treated, the larger it got. Mr. Richards tried every known remedy, including treatments by X Rays and by Radium. Within the last year it had involved all of his face about the corner of his mouth. On October 7, Dr. H. C. Hartley, of Paducah, came to the city and began applying an external remedy to the cancer on a guaranty to take it out or make no charge. On the night of the 16th the cancer came out, and was found adhering to the bandage or plaster when Mr. Richards awoke. It was 2 1/2 inches long, 1 inch wide and about the same thickness. A small portion of the upper lip had been eaten away, but flesh is forming and Dr. Hartley says the gap will be almost filled up. The remedy employed is a secret preparation handed down to the present owner by his brother, Dr. J. T. Hartley, who got it in

BIBLE CONFERENCE AND SCHOOL OF METHODS.

DR. J. F. LOVE.

One of the Bible Conference speakers who will speak Sunday night.

The Bible Conference and school of methods which has been promoted by Rev. M. A. Jenkins, of the First Baptist Church of Hopkinsville, begins Sunday with a full list of speakers. The object of such conference is the deepening of spirituality among Christians, a better knowledge of the Bible, better methods of church work and greater missionary interest.

There will be something like ten speakers in all, leading ministers and workers of the South. There will be three sessions a day for ten days: 10 a. m. 3 and 7:30 p. m. Four distinct lines along which all the addresses will be given are: "The Holy Spirit," "The Surrendered Life," "The Second coming of Christ," and "World Wide Missions."

Among the speakers are: Rev. J. C. Massee, Pastor of the Tabernacle church, Raleigh, N. C. one of the largest congregations in the South; Dr. W. A. Nelson, Supt. of the Tabernacle Bible Institute, Atlanta, Ga.; Rev. Julian S. Rodgers, Evangelist, Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. Frank L. Mallary, a prominent business man and Christian worker, of Macon, Ga.; Dr. W. H. Smith, Literary Secretary of the Baptist Foreign Mission Board

Richmond, Va.; Rev. J. F. Love, Assistant Secretary Baptist Home Mission Board, Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. J. G. Bow, Secretary Baptist State Mission Board, Louisville, Ky.; Rev. H. L. Walker, Evangelist, Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. Lloyd T. Wilson, one of Louisville's most prominent pastors.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAM

9:30 to 10:10 a. m. Sunday School. 10:10 to 11 a. m. Address by Mr. Frank L. Mallary: "The Sunday School."

11 a. m. Rev. W. A. Nelson, D. D. first of his series on "The Surrendered Life."

3 p. m. Rev. W. L. Walker, first of his series on "Evangelism."

7:30 p. m. Rev. J. F. Love, first of the addresses on World Wide Missions. Dr. Love will speak on Missions in the Home land.

Mr. Mallary will have charge of the singing, assisted by a large choir. We suggest that those who would secure a good seat go early. We predict great success for the conference. There has probably never been brought together a lot of more able and distinguished men on a similar meeting anywhere in the South. Pastor Jenkins and his people are to be congratulated.

CIRCUIT COURT

Dullest Week Since Term Began.

This has been a very dull week in court, with most of the time given to one or two civil cases of no interest to the public.

One commonwealth case was tried against Taylor Pryor and J. F. Hammonds, for operating a gaming table suppressed by the city last spring. They were fined $20 each. The cases against Alberta Mockbee and two other negro women charged with grand larceny and that against Daniel Layne, for robbery, are set for to-day.

West-Province.

Mr. Drew West and Miss Ella Prosser, a runaway couple from Christian county, Ky., were married in the county court clerk's office Wednesday morning by Squire D. T. Hamhill.—Clarksville Leaf Chronicle.

Kentuckian Killed.

Princeton, Ky., Oct. 16.—Walter Pool, a son of Henry Pool, of this city, was killed at Brodick, Pa., while performing his duties as a superintendent of steel construction. The body will arrive here to-morrow for burial.

INSTITUTE CLOSES

Second Day Was Even More Successful than First.

The farmers Institute was favored by another bright day Wednesday and the second day was more successful than the first. The crowd was larger and the discussions took on a wider range and covered several most timely subjects. Wheat culture, Farm Animals and Poultry for Profit were the leading topics and they were easily discussed not only by the instructors but by the farmers themselves.

It is doubtful if any Institute held in the state has been participated in by a more intelligent class of farmers than the Grangers about Church Hill.

AGED CITIZEN

Brother of the Late Fenton Sims is Dead.

Mr. Richard Sims died last Wednesday at the home of his nephew, Wm. H. Sims, near Cynthiana, Ky. He was a bachelor and was 82 years old. The deceased was a brother of the late Fenton Sims, of Cadiz, and of L. B. Sims, of Cobb.

OCTOBER CROP REPORT

Late Fall Was of Great Advantage to Tobacco.

CROP WELL HOUSED.

Hogs Reported to Be Dying In Christian County of Mysterious Plague.

The following extracts are taken from Commissioner Hubert Vreeland's crop report for October:

"The expected frosts in September did not come but on the contrary the warm weather during the month rapidly matured the bulk of the corn and tobacco crops and both are now out of danger from frosts, except a very small per cent. of late plantings.

The prospects for the corn yield improved during September and is now 94 per cent. as compared with 88 per cent. on September first.

Eighty-two per cent. of the Burley tobacco crop, and 81 per cent. of the dark tobacco was cut and housed by October 1st. As compared with the yield of last year the Burley is 87 per cent., while the dark is 81 per cent.

Christian County—Have had fine weather for growing crops and cutting tobacco. Pastures are good and stock generally in fine condition. Hogs are dying in some localities of what is called swine plague, but it is probably typhoid pneumonia. It is contagious and very fatal, as the ordinary remedies seem to have little effect."

THE GREAT TOBACCO TRUST

Has Augustus E. Willson Employed As Its Attorney.

IS TAKEN TO TASK.

Startling Disclosure Regarding the Republican Candidate for Governor.

In addition to his other corporation connections, comes the information that Augustus E. Willson, Republican gubernatorial nominee, is the attorney in the state of Kentucky for the American Tobacco Company, the great trust which has, through its policies in dealing with the farmers, compelled them to organize for their protection against it. Appellate Court Clerk J. Morgan Chin, custodian of records for the highest court of the state, makes this serious charge against Willson, and is enabled to prove it from the records in his possession. In a speech just delivered, Clerk Chin made his charge in the following language, which it will be well for every farmer and tobacco raiser to read:

"It will be good news, no doubt, to the tobacco raisers in Kentucky, who are at this particular time engaged in a death struggle with the American Tobacco Company, commonly known as the tobacco trust, to know that that distinguished statesman, Mr. Augustus E. Willson, whom the Republicans, I think in a fit of mental aberration, have seen fit to nominate for that exalted and honorable position of governor of Kentucky, is at this very instant,

THE VALUE OF PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE

Personal knowledge is the winning factor in the culminating contests of this competitive age and when of ample character it places its fortunate possessor in the front ranks of

The Well Informed of the World.

A vast fund of personal knowledge is really essential to the achievement of the highest excellence in any field of human effort.

A Knowledge of Forms, Knowledge of Functions and Knowledge of Products are all of the utmost value and in questions of life and health where a true and wholesome remedy is desired it should be remembered that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., is an ethical product which has met with the approval of the most eminent physicians and gives universal satisfaction, because it is a remedy of Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

Senator Pettus' Library.

The late Senator Pettus of Alabama was a "forty-sixer," going overland to California in the early days and engaging in placer mining. He took with him on that long and tedious journey three books, the Bible, Shakespeare and Burns' poems. He said of them at one time not long since: "I read the Bible from cover to cover; I read the side notes; I read the captions of the chapters; I learned great parts of it by heart, and I haven't forgotten them yet. I learned many of Burns' poems by heart, and much of Shakespeare in the same way, too." Such reading of these three books was an education in itself. It is not likely that many miners engaged in that search for wealth spent their leisure in as profitable a way.

Goshawk's Changing Plumage.

I know no bird which passes through so many changes of plumage and color of eyes as the goshawk. A young one which I have noted is about the size of a small hen and is covered with white down. His eyes are pale blue. I colored the eyes exactly from life. When fully grown the first plumage is dark brown above and the eyes are pale yellow. No one would be likely to suspect this being a goshawk who had only seen adult birds. Later it changes to the dark shady blue of the adult, and the eyes, after passing through all the intermediate changes in color from straw yellow, orange yellow and pink, finally assume the deep rich red of the adult. —Forest and Stream.

Long Overdue.

"What," queried the very young man, "was the happiest day of your life?"

"It hasn't come yet," answered the oldest inhabitant, sadly.

"Hasn't come yet!" echoed the other in surprise. "When do you think it will come?"

"When people cease to ask fool questions," answered the old man.

He'd Failed So Often.

"Mr. Timmid has asked if he might call to-night. I think he wants to tell me that he loves me," said Miss Yamer.

"Oh," replied her sister, "that goes without saying."

"Yes, and I'm afraid that he will, too."

Hydraulic Lifeboats.

Several of these craft are now in service in the United States. The propelling agents are jets of water driven out by a powerful steam pump through nozzles under water.

The nozzles can be made to drive the boat forward or backward, or turn it, the boat, of course, being driven by the reaction in the direction opposite to that of the escaping water.

A speed of 100 miles an hour was recently maintained in New York harbor in a trial trip.

Hydraulic lifeboats are not economical; their strong point is the absence of any external paddle wheels or propellers, which are so liable to become fouled by wreckage. The boat has projecting gunwales, which protect the nozzles from striking against slips or docks.

COW ATE DYNAMITE

AND FOR A TIME THERE WAS CHAOS ON THE FARM.

Peculiar Diet of Bovine Simply Unsettled Everything—Caused Labor Complication Among Other Things.

Queer demands are coming from the farmers on the line of the new acquisition, says the New York Times.

A claim for "one dynamited cow" was settled the other day. When the claim reached the controller it called for $125. The controller turned it over to the board of water supply, which in turn sent Engineer Charles E. Davis to investigate. The claimant was John McCauley, of Brown's station, Unter county. The engineering force had been at work near his place. The claim, he said, included the tramping down of growing grain.

"Was the cow blown up?" asked the engineer.

"Not exactly," said the claimant, "but she scared us all to death. You see, one of the engineers had left a stick of dynamite in a field and the cow ate it. She probably thought it was an ear of corn or something. You know how hard it is to get any hired men in this section. Why, the department of agriculture has sent out circulars telling the farmer how to get over the labor difficulty. I've got one of them up to the house."

"Well, some of the help I have had read that circular that was lying about the house, and then they kicked for more pay. There was Ed and John—"

"What's that got to do with the cow?" asked the investigator.

"Well, I was telling my story to my own way. You see, labor is scarce, and I had got that damned circular locked up in a closet, and I was hoping to keep Bill with me for a little, when Bill and I was walking through that field toward the cow. We saw her eating something and we didn't mistrust anything until we got up close to her just as the end of the stick was sticking out of her mouth, and I saw what it was."

"What's she eating?" asked Bill. "I didn't feed her anything."

"Bill, I'm telling you one thing of which I wouldn't suspect you if it were work. I know darn well you didn't feed that cow anything. But she's fed herself," says I, "and it's darned hot stuff," says I.

"Bill he looked a little queer."

"What is it?" says he.

"Dynamite," says I.

"My God," says he.

"He stood still for so long a time that I thought he wasn't afraid. All of a sudden the cow turned and walked toward him."

"Drive her off; we'll both be killed," says Bill, picking up a big stone.

"Don't you do it," says I; "she'll explode. She's full of dynamite, and the slightest jar'll set her off."

"Bill began to laugh—half laugh and half cry, you know, like a lady. Number boarder I once had who found a toad under her bed when she was looking for a man. Then I says,

"Bill, it's up to you to do something."

"Why is it up to me?" says he.

"You own the cow."

"That's just it," says I. "I own the cow and you are working for the man that owns her."

"Bill gave me a look. Then he says:

"Well, I ain't working for him no longer," says he, and with that he cut across the fields without waiting for his wages."

"Well, my family and I stayed that night at the house of my brother, five miles away, to make sure of being safe. In the morning I went back to the farm and found that the cow was dead. The dynamite had poisoned her. John Wilkey, the dare devil of the neighborhood, carried off the body for $10."

The engineer found upon questioning the force in the neighborhood that a stick of dynamite had disappeared. So he settled for $150. The farmer took the money.

"Say," he said, "you know I have a telephone in my house. Day before yesterday Bill called me up."

"Say," says he, "is that cow dead?"

If she is I'm coming back for my wages."

"You'll get no wages," says I."

Sermon in a Few Words.

We are very much impressed by something we saw and heard while passing along the street a few evenings since. A young girl was standing in front of a store, and near her, with a handkerchief upon her face, was a young stripling of a boy. As we passed the two, the girl said to the boy: "Any one who speaks of my father as the old man is not worthy of my respect." From the tone of her voice, we knew that the girl spoke from the impulse of a moment, but there was a whole sermon in her utterance. We don't know if, but she lives she will develop into a noble womanhood, and the world will be the better for her having lived in it. And the boy, if he has any redeeming qualities in him, will profit by the lesson given him in that sentence.—Burlington Chronicle.

PLANTERS BANK & TRUST CO

CAUSES OF SUICIDE

STATISTICS COLLECTED FROM MANY SOURCES.

Numerous Cases Attributable to Childless Marriages—Rate High Among Germanic Nations—Means of Self-Destruction.

Among 1,000,000 suicides of all classes, it has been found that 205 married men with children destroyed their lives; 470 married men without children; 535 widowers with, and 1,004 widowers without children.

With respect to the women, 45 married women with, and 188 without children committed suicide, while 194 widows with, and 235 without offspring, completed the list.

On the face of things it would appear that in childless marriages the number of suicides is doubled and in women trebled. Leaving the case of actual insane persons out of count, it would also appear that in males suicide is more frequent than in females.

Equally interesting is that phase of the subject which deals with the causes. One table dealing with 6,783 cases shows one-seventh caused by misery, one twenty-first part by loss of fortune, one forty-third by gambling, one nineteenth by love affairs, one-sixth by fanaticism, and by folly and ambition and remorse one-seventh and one twenty-seventh respectively. The geography of suicide is also of high interest. Westcott says the highest proportion in Europe is shown by the Germanic races, Saxony having "the largest rate of any country." In Norway the rate was very large for a time, its decrease being attributed to the greater restrictions now laid on the liquor traffic.

The Celtic races have a low rate, and this is evinced by the figures for Ireland and Wales. Mountainous regions are said to show a lower rate than lowlands. In the highlands of Scotland and Wales, and in the high areas of Switzerland, suicide is rare.

Times and seasons also operate apparently, to influence the act of self-destruction. Roughly speaking, the curve line of suicide, calculated through the year, rises from January to July, and decreases for the second half of the year. The maximum periods have been found to fall in May, June and July. I believe, indeed, June is found to show a marked predominance as a suicide month.

One reason for such preeminence in the warm season of the year is set down as represented by the onset of hot weather affecting the system and tending to disturb mental equilibrium of the subjects. In 1903 cases noted in Paris the prevailing hours of self-destruction were from six a. m. to noon and from two to three p. m.

Perhaps one of the most curious phases of this study is revealed in the fact already alluded to—namely, that different countries do show preferences for different modes of committing suicide from other lands. The most common European method is by means of hanging, but in Italy the mode of self-destruction is rare.

Drowning comes next in order, and twice as many women as men perish in this way each year in Europe. Shooting is frequent in Italy and Sweden. Curious, too, is the custom in England and Ireland; it does not seem to constitute anywhere else a frequent mode of ending life.

Poisoning is a specialty Anglo-Saxon method of suicide; we are told; while suffocation by the fumes of carbonic acid, inhaled in a closed room, is very typical of suicide in France.

Necklace Brings Ill Luck.

An eerie story is told about a necklace which formerly belonged to the maharannee of Cooch Behar, India, and which is supposed to bring bad results to every one who comes in contact with it. The history of the necklace—of pearls and turquoises, which are not usually considered to be unlucky stones—is certainly peculiar. While it was in the maharannee's possession she was robbed of a quantity of valuable jewelry and the maharajah lost some of his best racing ponies by death and breakdowns. The advice of a pundit was sought. He prescribed a change of ownership and a voyage across the sea in order to break the spell and the necklace was accordingly given to a friend of the maharajah. The maharajah has begun to win races again and the maharannee has received the stolen property, but the story goes that the present owner of the necklace has been the victim of persistent ill fortune from the day that it came into her possession.

Queen of Siam's Jewels.

The Queen of Siam possesses the finest collection of jewels in the world. The walls of her bed chamber are literally ablaze with precious stones, while in a safe in her majesty's apartments are diamonds, rubies, pearls and emeralds fashioned into quaint necklaces of fabulous value. One little article alone intended to serve as a trinket, is in the world's most famous jewel and is valued at $15,000.

The king, too, possesses a wonderful stock of jewels, and not only is his robe, which is made of pure gold, thickly encrusted with diamonds, pearls and rubies, but his majesty's state mantle is covered with jewels. In fact, this cloak is the most wonderful of garments in the world. It is one of his enormous collection of jewels, however, the King of Siam is constantly adding to them and spends something like $120,000 per annum in purchasing new stock.

DIRE DISTRESS

It Is Near at Hand to Hundreds of Hopkinsville Readers.

Don't neglect an aching back. Backache is the kidney's cry for help.

Neglect hurrying to their aid. Means that urinary troubles follow quickly.

Dire distress, Diabetes, Bright's disease, Mr. G. Long, farmer, one of the best known residents of the county, who lives on the large farm which he owns, on the Franklin road, one and a half miles east of Russellville, Ky., says: "I had marked symptoms of kidney ailments, particularly in connection with the kidney secretions which at times were most irregular and distressing. Once in a while I would feel a heavy, dull aching across the small of my back, always more severe after any over-exertion. My attention was attracted to Doan's Kidney Pills by advertisements in the papers and the statements made by the people who had tried them led me to believe that they could be depended upon. I procured a box and before I had used the contents there was a vast improvement in my condition, enough to prove to my satisfaction that Doan's Kidney Pills are fine for kidney and bladder troubles."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Millburn Co., New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Busybodies.

"When you find yohsef tempted to mix up in other people's affairs," said Uncle Eben, "jes got to a ball game an' notice de unpopularity of de impire."

The Price of Health.

"The price of health in a malarious district is just 25 cents; the cost of a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills," writes Ella Clayton, of No. land, Ark. New Life Pills cleanse gently and impart new life and vigor to the system. 25c. Satisfaction guaranteed at R. C. Hardwick, druggist.

World's Botanical Gardens.

In France there are 32 botanical gardens; in Germany, 35; in Great Britain and Ireland, 11; in Russia, 14; while there are but five public botanical gardens in the whole of the United States.

Bitten by a Spider

Through blood poisoning caused by a spider bite, John Washington, of Bosqueville, Tex., would have lost his leg, which became a mass of running sores, had he not been persuaded to try Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes: "The first application relieved, and four bars healed all the sores." Heals every sore. 25c at R. C. Hardwick, druggist.

The Fair.

Shuffle and Pounce Billy and Me went 2 the Fair on the Fair grounds, by Eggs.

We found a Hole in the Fence by the Crick.

Gracious! we thought that Fatty wood stick!

We was a bit threw when we heard him Cry next thing we heard was the gate Keeper shout!

Fatty was wedged in the Hole of the title!

aw! of us fellows we pulled with our Mice.

We fetched him threw but we tore him up sum.

Pat didn't care—aw! he wished us 3 cum!

then we slipped out running rite up the Track.

We was afraid they wood hustel us back.

nt they was lots to enjoy at the fair—every blamed Bull in the country was there!

Chickens and pigeons and horses and sheep and SNAKES that wood gist make you creep!

they was a Feller that walked on a wire then the Balloon busted loose and took fire!

I won a Nickel from Stub on a race—he didn't pay it with my Good Grace! next was the Pony race. Stub woodnt bet.

he let me have what of a Fairday yet. They was a ball game. I hear them yell!

I had 2 go for 2 fetch home these Cow!

I hate the Job but they's no use 2 stew me sez we aw! must have sum things 2 we can't have everything gist as we wood.

we can't have 2 behave and D good. I s'pose the Fair should be sum recom-pen-sation.

hope they don't find that there Hole in the Fence!

By the Way.

A new maid out in our town wouldn't let some swell ladies from the city leave the cards while calling, on the grounds that the mistress had plenty of her own and bigger ones, too!

An N. Y. boy recently described marriage thus: "Holy matrimony is a divine institution for the provocation of mankind."

There may be microbes in whiskers, according to the physicians, but you can't scare a girl.

A spectacle vender always believes in second sight.

As a rule, papa isn't afraid of anything on earth except mamma.

No, dear, the slang phrase "come across" did not originate with Washington crossing the Delaware.

It's fun to watch the "Lend-a-Hands" and the "Crochet Clubs" and the "Needle Tinkers' Brigade" sparring to get hold of the wife of a newly arrived citizen who has money.

A woman may run down her neighbors and still not be a gossip. There's the motor car, for instance.

When the junk man comes around and asks if there is anything else he might take, sometimes you feel like telling him, "Yes—a bath!"

Whips.

A Rhode Island man says he believes whips saved his life. Some men can believe almost anything.

When a man is in love, he feels as gentle as a malted kitten drinking skim milk.

Sometimes a man thinks he could have a lot more fun if he were single. Then his wife goes away on her vacation and by the end of the second week he begins to distrust his judgment.

By the time he has forgotten to send away his soiled laundry and has to wear a sweater down to the office, he is satisfied that single blessedness has its drawbacks.

A mean Nebraska cuss has suggested that young men about to be married should insure against mother-in-laws. He wants to start such a company, but he can't find anyone to take the risks!

A big family is always a joy until father dies and the estate is to be divided.

An Iowa schoolboy was describing to his teacher what a phenomenon it is, said he. "If you see a donkey, that is not a phenomenon. If you see a bird, that is not a phenomenon. If the donkey brays or the bird sings, that is not a phenomenon, but if the donkey sits on the top-most twig of a basswood tree and warbles 'Tweet! Tweet!' to a bird kicking the stuffing out of a game cocker down in the barnyard, that would be a phenomenon!"

REPUBLICAN MISREPRESENTATION OF BECKHAM'S PARADISE RECORD.

Owing to misrepresentation by Republican campaign, a record of the record of Governor Beckham in the matter of granting pardons to convicted persons during the seven years he has been chief executive, done for the evident purpose of making a favorable showing for former Gov. Bradley, Secretary Leigh of the State department has made an inspection of these records with the following result:

Pardons of felonies during the administration of Gov. Bradley for four years, from 1896 to 1899, 448. This includes several commutations from death to life sentence, pardons of felonies before trial, and convicts who were detained through no fault of their own from entering service immediately after conviction.

Pardons of felonies during the administration of Gov. Beckham for (nearly) eight years, from February 3rd, 1900 to Oct. 9th, 1907, 355. This includes several commutations from death to life sentence, pardons of felonies before trial, and convicts who were detained through no fault of their own from entering service immediately after conviction.

The statement of the Republican press issued by Governor Bradley includes parables to convicts. These are granted by the State prison Commission, composed of three men elected by the general assembly, and over whose action the Governor has no control whatever, and who can speak for themselves. The list also includes the large number of remissions granted by the Governor in the cases of Louisville Druggists, confectioners and others, who were arranged by Magistrate Hoffman, of this city, for Sunday selling, and which remissions were requested and approved by leading citizens of Louisville. The list also includes the restorations to citizenship by the Governor. The exact number of these has not yet been ascertained by the secretary from the records, but he says they will not be found nearly so numerous as the record of the Republican Governor will show.

The records of the Bradley administration show that in the matter of restoration to citizenship they were granted largely in the cases of negro ex-convicts. This record, Secretary Leigh says, shows the restoration of as many as seventeen negroes in a single day.

The Beckham's record shows that the Governor, during his seven years of office, communicated to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed in only five cases. Two of the five were negroes, who had no influence behind them, and a third was declared insane by a court judge.

Bad Blood

Is the cause of all humors, eruptions, boils, pimples, acrofolous sores, eczema or salt rheum, as well as of rheumatism, catarrh and other troubles. The greatest blood remedy for all these troubles, proved by its unequalled record of cures, is

Hood's Sarsaparilla

In usual liquid form or in chocolate tablets known as Sarsatabs. 100 doses $1.

By a vote of 430 to 72 the Grand lodge of Masons barred liquor dealers from membership in the future.

The number of dead as a result of the powder mill explosion at Fontanet, Ind., is placed at thirty-eight. Two companies of state troops are on the scene, and the town is under martial law. The coroner of Vigo county is investigating the disaster.

The Glasgow Republican criticizes Gov. Beckham for writing one of his campaign letters to a colored Democrat at Cadiz, named Price Mayr, referred to as "a negro of questionable character." From Republican standpoints any negro who votes for a Democrat is a "questionable character."

Wyatt Edmunds, a negro who formerly lived in this city announced himself a candidate for councilman in Madisonville, but subsequently withdrew. There is violent opposition to negroes holding office in Hopkins county and the aspirations of Edmunds are being made a local issue by the Democrats.

It was reserved for Morgan Chin to discover the liveliest issue in the present somewhat listless campaign. The disclosure from official records that Gus Willson is the attorney for the American Tobacco Company, otherwise known as the tobacco trust, is a body blow to Republican hopes this year. He is not only a natural enemy of the people, but is out of accord with his own party that is just now engaged in a national prosecution of this Trust. It is all over with Gus.

Col. HUSBANDS.

Fitting Tribute to Virtue of a Native of Christian County.

The Paducah News-Democrat pays this tribute to the late Col. Husbands of that city:

"Lorenzo Dow Husbands was born December 18, 1823, in Christian County, where his father settled in 1805. When two years of age he moved with his parent to Crittenden county.

Col. Husbands was a remarkable man. Vigorous in mind and body, until his late illness, he was vividly interested in everything. Besides being well versed in his profession, he was cultured in a general way, and was a bright conversationalist. In his older days, he was fond of relating reminiscences of earlier times and was familiar with history of pioneer Paducah. He loved company and his home was a center of hospitality, of which he was the leading spirit.

Firm in his convictions, he was at the same time liberal toward the views of others and could appreciate a good point in argument, even if it was against him. He always brought to every cause he championed a splendid enthusiasm that kept the freshness and vigor of youth, even in his declining years.

He took a pride in his belief in the superstitions of the Southland and was much interested in everything that hinted of mysticism. He would often tell of how he never looked at a new moon through tree branches, believing that it would bring him bad luck. To avoid any such possibility, he would have his old negro valet, who was in his employ for many years, to lead him to a clear space in the yard and tell him when it would be safe to look, to be sure to see the smiling crescent, without obstruction. Then, with childish belief that it would be fulfilled, the hoary patriarch and dignified judge would make a wish. He said it often proved a mascot in helping him to win many a difficult law case.

He was a man of magnificent appearance, tall and straight as an arrow, with a keen, penetrating eye, before which the law breaker quailed, but which was capable of the kindest expression. As a judge he was just and honorable—as a man he was gentle and lovable, and his memory will be fondly cherished by all fortunate enough to know him."

Europe. It is harmless and is made from ordinary herbs. If swallowed the medicine does the patient no harm. Dr. Hartley is a practicing physician. He lives on a farm near Paducah and he and his son make a business of taking out cancer and tumors. He says he has removed 180 to 190 cancers in seven years, making permanent cures in 95 per cent of the cases taken, and has never had a patient to die under his treatment. He exhibits certificates of two cures in Caldwell County. One was the removal of a cancer from the chin of Mrs. Mildred S. Martin and the other one from the head of Mrs. Kate Reed, of Fredonia, of eleven years' growth.

Mr. Richards cancer was what the Doctors called a "spider" cancer. It had caused him much suffering. He was out on the streets yesterday and expresses great gratitude to the man who has given him relief. He says he will cheerfully answer inquiries from other sufferers and recommend Dr. Hartley unreservedly as being able to do all he claims.

LETTERS FROM

Leading Citizens Commending Excellent Course.

It gives us no little pleasure to publish the following letters from some of our leading citizens, bearing on our next lyceum course. The public can see at a glance the merit of the coming list of attractions and the sale of season tickets is the best we have had in four years. We try to give a better series of entertainments each year, and our next offering is by far the most pretentious that we have ever attempted. Every number on the course this season is really a leader in their different forms of amusement, and the expense in bringing this superior list of artists is several hundred dollars more than we have ever contracted for before. Our efforts have been kindly received and we will have the largest audiences this season in the history of the cabaret. The letter from Judge Joe McCarroll enumerates a few of the advantages of a lyceum course:

"Mr. Tabernacle Co., Dear Sir:—Replying to your request that I express my opinion of the course of entertainments to be given to Union Tabernacle this winter, I beg to say that without professing to be an authority on such matters, the course selected is in my opinion one of the best, if not the very best that could have been secured. It will certainly afford a great opportunity to those of our readers who have ambition in the direction of culture, information or refinement, to reap benefits which it would require a great deal of study, travel and money to obtain at first hands. Our people should hasten to show their appreciation of the opportunity by subscribing liberally for season tickets, which I see are sold at a mere nominal price.

Yours truly,
JOE MCCARROLL."

From Rev. H. D. Smith, pastor of the Christian church, we have the following letter, which we appreciate very much:

"My Dear Sir,—I have seen the circular relating to your coming lyceum course and apart from your own sufficient testimony as to its moral and entertaining character I am sure it is all right and I shall take pleasure in approving your selections both privately and publicly. Let me add that your capable management of former courses has been no small public benefit and that you have my sympathetic interest in your efforts to give us another series of entertainments which shall be at once morally sound and artistically excellent.

Respectfully,
H. D. SMITH."

We would like to impress upon parents the importance of getting tickets for their children, they learn from these artists, who have spent years and money perfecting themselves, things not taught in text books, and the influence is the best. We close this article with a letter from Prof. Hamlett, Supt. of the city schools:

"Mr. Tabernacle Lyceum Course, City, My Dear Sir,—Your efforts to give our people a great course this winter are fully justified by the splendid talent you have secured. These lyceum courses while affording the highest class of entertainment are of very great educational value. If the public can afford entertainment for their children at all, they should certainly give them that which is unquestionably pure, and which affords the greatest pleasure and profit.

I commend the Lyceum Course most heartily, and desire to thank its faithful and efficient management for the courses I have attended with great pleasure the past two years, and especially for the one arranged for the coming season. I believe that I am anticipating the best that you have ever been able to offer.

Yours very truly,
BARKSDALE HAMLETT."

A Radical Departure.

The most popular illustrated weeklies and monthlies are produced at enormous cost. Competition for the work of the leading authors and illustrators has established a scale of expense that is almost prohibitive.

Yet in addition to its many attractive features The Chicago Sunday Record-Herald furnishes its readers with a Sunday Magazine which compares favorably with the independent periodicals in every way and has some merits peculiar to itself. The most famous writers and illustrators contribute to its paper and press work and handy size make it a pleasure to read this entertaining publication which marks a radical departure in Sunday journalism.

ANNUAL VISIT

Of Mr. John J. Kennedy and Miss Winnifred Greenwood.

The famous Comedian, Mr. John Kennedy and the beautiful artist, Miss Winnifred Greenwood, will make their annual visit to this city next week, beginning Oct. 21, with usual matinees.

In connection with this strong dramatic organization a company of 9 big Vaudeville acts is carried including Chas. and Minnie Burroughs, the famous Comedy Duo, Louise Hess, greatest of all singing and dancing comedienne, Baby Dot, the cleverest child artist now appearing before the public. Prof. Hall's marvelous Dogs, and the highest price act ever carried by a stock organization, "Miller, the Handcuff King and Jail Breaker," who boasts that there is no jail built that can hold him. Come and be convinced.

One lady will be admitted free if accompanied by one paid reserved seat 30 cent ticket purchased at the advance sale before 6 p. m. Monday. Seats now on sale at The Anderson & Fowler Drug Co., Incorporated.

"The Holy Bible."

Next Sunday night at the Catholic church the pastor will deliver a lecture on "The Holy Bible." This will be the first of a series of Sunday evening talks on questions mooted among Christians.

The first lecture will be a historical review of the Bible with regard to its parts, its canon, its inspirations and its language. The aim of the pastor is to show that the Catholic church holds a thoroughly orthodox position on the Holy Scriptures and counsels her children to possess and to read them as the very word of God.

Lovers of truth who are desirous of ascertaining the real positions of the church on this point of doctrine are invited to be present.

LANDMARK DEMOLISHED

Rock Bridge Blown to Pieces With Dynamite.

The keystones of the old double arch stone bridge on North Main street were destroyed Thursday morning with a big explosion of dynamite. The center pier is to be removed from the bed of the river and a suspension iron bridge 90 feet long will take the place of the old narrow, turtle-back stone bridge, which was too narrow for vehicles to meet upon it and was placed diagonally across the stream for some reason not known.

The bridge was erected in 1888 while A. D. Rodgers, Sr., was county judge and at that time the county paid for the bridge. The new one will be broad enough for vehicles to meet and will have foot-bridges on both sides. It will be a handsome and modern structure costing about $3,300 for the bridge and about $1,700 for the masonry. This time the city of Hopkinsville is paying for the structure. The bridge is to be ready for use by Nov. 15.

and has been for years the hired, paid, and employed attorney for the American Tobacco Company, as evidenced by the records in the office of the clerk of the court of appeals. For there was filed in that office on December 6th, 1906, the transcript of the record in the case of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company against the American Tobacco Company, which was an appeal from the Jefferson circuit court involving the sum of $1125.90 that the American Tobacco Company recovered from this railroad company in the lower court for the loss by fire of a car of tobacco that they had consigned to Chicago over the lines of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company, and while the car was in the yards of the railroad company in the city of Louisville, the tobacco the property of the American Tobacco Company was destroyed in some way by fire. The American Tobacco Company, through their attorney, Augustus E. Willson, instituted suit in the Jefferson circuit, common pleas, second division, and filed his petition for the said tobacco company on the 18th day of April, 1905, and upon the 4th day of June, 1906, he was awarded judgment against the railroad company for the amount claimed, $1125.90, from which judgment there was prosecuted by the railroad company an appeal from the Jefferson circuit court to the court of appeals where Mr. Willson again appears of record as attorney for the American Tobacco Company, and filed his brief for that company (the appellee) on April 30th, 1907. The judgment of the lower court was affirmed by the court of appeals on Oct. 10th, 1907.

"We do not mean to deny Mr. Willson the right to represent the tobacco trust as an attorney, as that is his privilege, but it is also the privilege of the people of Kentucky who are of the opinion that he would not make a good, fair and impartial governor on account of his employment by the tobacco trust to vote against him at the ensuing election, and if I know anything about the temperament of this people, you will most assuredly repudiate this man who is tied to the body of a living death, and willing to scrape the clothes from the backs of your children by upholding the hands of this trust that is now in a criminal combination in restraint of trade, in violation of your rights, and in violation of the laws of the state and nation, and who by reason of this employment regards the Society of Equity as an organized mob, and its members marauders."

RALLY AT PROVIDENCE.

Tobacco People Will Have Speaking in Webster.

Arrangements have been completed for the big tobacco meeting at Providence Oct. 19th. Joel B. Fort has signified his intention to be present and a number of good speakers from all over this end of the state will be there. All the labor organizations will be in line, including the union miners, the Equity farmers and the D. T. A. farmers. It will be a great day for Providence and people will be there from all over this end of the state.

The meeting is not for the purpose of securing new members, as the books for 1907 have been definitely and finally closed.

KENTUCKY MASONS

Elect Henry Barrett, of Henderson, Grand Master.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 16.—The Grand Lodge of Kentucky Masons elected officers today as follows: Grand Master, Henry Barrett, Henderson; Deputy Grand Master, Virgil Smith, Somerset; Grand Senior Warden, John Coyle, Louisville; Grand Junior Warden, R. R. Burnum, Richmond; Grand Treasurer, John H. Leathers; Grand Secretary, H. B. Grant.

Cheapest accident insurance—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Stops the pain and heals the wound. All druggists sell it.

Prices Will Be Higher.

It is evident that the farmers are expecting and will demand a higher price for tobacco than was received last year. In the first place the loose agents are offering more in the barn, the farmer who has to pay the cost of pricing must add to that price. Then the crop is a better one, which makes it worth more and then it is a short one and demands more and lastly the farmers have to pay higher wages, which makes the cost of growing the crop more. Therefore there is no doubt but that the buyer expects to pay more, and will have it to do to get the goods.—Clarksville Leaf-Chronicle.

Barnes.

A Sequel to MR. BARNES OF NEW YORK

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Burton H. Barnes, a wealthy American touring Corsica, rescues the young English lieutenant, Edward Gerard Anstruther, and his Corsican bride, Marina, daughter of the Paella, from the murderous vendetta, understanding that his reward is to be the hand of the girl he loves, Enid Anstruther, sister of the English lieutenant. The four fly from Ajaccio to Marseilles on board the French steamer Corsica. The vendetta pursues and as the quartet are about to board the train for London at Marseilles, Marina is handed a mysterious note which causes her to collapse and necessitates a postponement of the journey.

CHAPTER II—Barnes gets part of the mysterious note and receives letters which inform him that he is marked by the vendetta. He employs an American detective and plans to beat the vendetta at their own game. For the purpose of securing the safety of the women Barnes agrees to have Lady Charris leave a secluded villa at Nice to which the party is to be taken in a yacht.

CHAPTER III—Suspicion is created that Marina is in league with the Corsicans. A man, believed to be Corregio Danella, is seen passing the house and Marina is thought to have given him a sign. She refuses to explain to Barnes which fact adds to his latent suspicion.

CHAPTER IV—Barnes plans for the safety of the party are learned by the Corsicans. The carriage carrying the party to the local landing is followed by two men, are supposed to be Corregio, and they try to murder the Americans. The cook on the yacht—a Frenchman—is suspected.

CHAPTER V—The yacht is followed by a small boat. The cook is detected giving signals to the boat. Barnes attempts to throw him overboard, but is prevented by Marina and Enid.

CHAPTER VI—The cook is found to be innocent of the supposed plot and is forgiven. The party arrive at Nice and find Lady Charris and her daughter Maud domiciled in the villa rented by Barnes' money. Barnes is amazed to find that Count Corregio is at Nice and is acting the role of admirer to Lady Charris.

CHAPTER VII—Barnes and Enid make arrangements for their marriage.

CHAPTER VIII—The tight lips about Barnes. He receives a note from La Belle Blackwood, an American adventuress and hears that Enid is his detective. He hears that this man supposed to be Corregio, who followed the party on their way to the boat, was Salicetti, a member of the count, and that Count Corregio had been in Nice for some time before the party's arrival. The count warns Barnes not to allow Enid unless he would have her also involved in the murders feared.

CHAPTER IX—Barnes and Enid are married. Soon afterward the bride disappears. Barnes discovers she has been kidnapped and taken to Corsica.

CHAPTER X—The groom searches a fishing vessel and is about to start in pursuit of his bride's captors when he hears screams from the villa, and rushes back to hear that Anstruther's wife, Marina, is missing. Barnes takes her as a part for Corsica without delay, and so he leaves the search for Marina to her husband while he goes to hunt for Enid. Just before Barnes' boat lands on Corsica, where Marina is being held, she is in the corner of the vessel. She explains her action by saying she has come to help Barnes to rescue his wife from the Corsicans.

CHAPTER XI—When Barnes and Marina arrive in Corsica he is told a note written by Enid informing him that the kidnapping is for the purpose of entrapping Barnes, so the vendetta may kill him.

CHAPTER XII—Barnes and Marina have unusual adventures on the island for Enid. They come a sight of her and her captors in the Corsican mountain gullies just as night approaches. In shelter from a storm the couple enter the hermitage and find their antagonist they discover, Tomasso, Enid's foster father who Marina was supposed to have been killed by Dr. Belloc's soldiers, and for whose death Barnes had been vendettized.

But as they near the summit of the mountain, darkness comes also and a blinding mist, cold with the chill of melting snow, descends upon them, and enveloping them with a fleecy sheen, the rocks and lichens about the path are shrouded from their gaze.

They are above the timber line and the great bare granite blocks bruise Marina's tender feet as they stumble among them.

The girl lays her hand upon her companion's arm. "We may reach the summit before darkness," she pants, out of breath, "but the dizzy descent on the other side is impossible without daylight."

"I remember," answers Burton. "I have passed down it hunting moulton." Then he takes off his hunting coat and places it carefully over the delicate shoulders of his fragile companion, already shivering in her light summer garment under the icy mist about her. "I am thinking of some shelter for you, for we must pass the night upon the mountain," he says tenderly; then asks anxiously: "Do you know one?"

"Yes," she replies, her teeth chattering. "If we can reach it in this storm. The little chalet where poor old Tomasso sometimes took me when he brought me here as a child to pluck the flowers of the mountain."

With this she turns abruptly to the left, and Barnes following her, they struggle up a corridor filled with massive boulders, but nearing the summit the mist becomes colder, the wind sharper and the gloom more deep. Surrounded, as they are, by frightful precipices, this is appalling.

"I've lost my way," mutters Marina, her voice low with faintness, but a moment after she cries: "Ah, see the granite cliff. That was the Corsican cabin is beneath it. But beware! beyond the cabin there is a very deep crevice."

The wind howls about them. The light is even blacker, but keeping the sheen of the cliff close at his left, Barnes stumbles over the granite slabs almost carrying the exhausted girl finally, compelled by the howling of the wind, he calls into her ear: "Courage! I see the hut. Thank God, someone has a fire inside it."

"A fire? It is made by the awful bandits, the Rossi and Romano who murder so many poor travelers," shudders Marina.

But undeterred by this, using the light as a beacon, her escort rapidly approaches the open door of the little cabin, from which issues a cheerful gleam.

Suddenly they pause, for a deep tone issues threateningly from its interior: "Holla, if you are gendarmes, beware of me!"

"Madre mia," gasps Marina, with a low scream, "that voice."

"Tidit or no bandit, you shall give us warmth and shelter!" calls Barnes in answer. Then he too, stands astounded, as from the rough door strides a man, half outlined by the flickering flames and surrounded by the mists of the mountains is a face that makes Marina tremble and shrink. "Holy Mother of God, a ghost!"

For it is the countenance of her foster father, old Tomasso Monaldi, who, very old, had thought dead from the night of her wedding.

But now the goblin recognizes her; it cries: "Marina! daughter of my heart! you have come to succor your poor old hunted down Tomasso," and sinking on his knees, it catches the half fainting girl's hand, and kisses it reverently.

"You alive, dear old Tomasso? Impossible!" half shudders, half sob the girl, sinking down beside the spirit and looking into his deep, dark eyes that gleam so lovingly upon her.

"Two weeks ago, on the morning of the tragedy, Do Belloc's soldiers reported to that officer in my presence that they'd killed you," says Barnes impressively.

"Bah!" sneers the ghost; "the sergeant, I suppose, told his officer they shot me. The soldiers fired. It was easier for me to fall down behind a granite boulder than stand up and let them shoot again, though it was the darkness of the early morning. Then came up on the mountain here and fearing the soldiers would again pursue me, I have been a hermit, descending at night to the lower valleys to garner chickens and steal sheep."

"Holy mother of God," exclaims Barnes, "here's the fellow for whose death they have vendettized me, alive and talking!"

CHAPTER XIII.
"Glorious Bandit."

The storm fairly howls about them, but Marina forgets it as Tomasso half sobs: "Your coming here, dear mistress, shows you forgive me for the killing of the Englishman, your husband, the one who murdered Antonio in the duel," and the flicker of light revealing Barnes' face, he exclaims: "The American who saw your brother slain. Ah, now you agree with me this occurred Anstruther's death was just."

"Thank God, you didn't murder him!" cries the girl. "Your stiletto entered the heart of Musso Danella, who deserved death for his lies."

"I killed poor Musso Danella!" stammers the old Corsican. Then he mutters as if he can't believe: "No, no, I heard his groan as I struck through the curtains."

"'Twas the groan of Musso Danella," answers Marina. "That you killed the right man proves my husband innocent. 'Twas the hand of God directed you." The girl's voice is very reverent.

"Then if it was the hand of God, Danella's death is sure proof your husband killed not Antonio," says Tomasso solemnly, making the sign of the cross; but again breaks forth: "No, no—the proof! Musso gave to both you and me made us believe this Anstruther, your spouse, shot your brother. The things he held up to our very eyes—"

"Were the property of another, English officer—one killed in action on a British warship under the Egyptian flag at Alexandria! Do you think I live in the arms of a man with my brother's blood upon him?" cries the young wife fervently.

"No, that is not possible, also," agrees old Musso. "I am thinking of the day after to-morrow the people vote. They have a meeting this evening in Bocognano. I listened from behind a rock and heard them."

But Barnes is not so easy about his captured bride; he steps out of the cabin and finds the wind has died away, the mist has cleared with the rapidly used to mountain storms.

He steps in and says anxiously to Marina: "The evening is very clear. You know my anguish—do you think you have strength to venture down the heights, assisted by Tomasso and me, and enter your own village?"

Here, as they warm themselves before the fire, Tomasso remarks: "I have a hot offer you, dear mistress, some dried sheep's flesh."

"Fish! hunger is nothing. You are alive, dear old Tomasso," recalls the girl, as he again mumbles her hand. Still the young lady's eyes seem happier when Barnes, opening his haversack, throws out cans of preserved meats, spotted chicken and tinned biscuits; also tea and coffee and tin cups and plates. These being followed by a box of cigars, the American emits a note of joy, and remarks: "Little Lebor is a genius."

Immediately all together they go to work to make a mountain supper. Soon after, as they eat, Barnes remarks: "This is a mighty curious coincidence. Do you know, old Tomasso, that Salicetti, the young politician here, the one who is to marry your daughter, Etheria, has sworn a vendetta against me for putting the troops on your track and getting you shot to death."

"A vendetta against you? Well, it was his duty, seeing he is to marry my daughter, had your soldiers killed me," returns the old Corsican, in his simple way.

A moment after, however, he chuckles to himself: "Per Dio, that was what Rochini and Romano wanted me to do to-day—I had to kill you."

"Those awful monsters," shudders Marina.

"What makes you think that, Monaldi?" asks Barnes, surprise upon his face.

"Well, this Rochini, and his mate, have been run out of Rotondo, the farmers there having got tired of their sheep disappearing too rapidly, and have come over to this mountain. To-day these two approached me some four hours ago and said: 'Brother bandit out of a job, join us. A messenger has been sent ahead and we are going down to help Salicetti make votes for himself by killing the American down in the vale toward Guagnano.'"

"Hum! then you did not accept," remarks Barnes, lighting his cigar.

"I am not quite bandit enough to shoot a man I have never heard of before," answers old Monaldi proudly, "so I said: 'No. Ah, but he will be good with him,' cried Rochini. 'Foreigners always have gold,' said Romano, and the two went on their way. They are down the valley now."

"That is not all of it," says Barnes earnestly. "Your loved mistress—her life is in danger, too."

"Not by those or any other men while I, Tomasso, am alive," answers the old man savagely.

"No, but by Cipriano Danella, Musso's brother, and the scared-eyed young man, Musso's nephew."

"Oh, yes, I know them both. They threaten her," says the old Corsican gazes with love and reverence upon the being he adores. "Threaten her—these people!" he exclaims vindictively.

"Yes, because your stiletto killed Musso, they say she plotted with you for his murder, so as to save her husband," remarks Barnes, puffing his cigar.

"What, when she shrieked to me not to strike through the curtain. Ah, but I have something to say to Musso's relatives. And my friend, Salicetti, whom I once voted for, who is to marry my Etheria—if he is with them, I will have a word with Salicetti, and should he not prove pliable Etheria must get another for husband. Girls should not marry corpses, and Salicetti will be dead." As if the matter had been a living man, he would have said: "I will have a word with Salicetti, and should he not prove pliable Etheria must get another for husband. Girls should not marry corpses, and Salicetti will be dead."

"I will have a word with Salicetti, and should he not prove pliable Etheria must get another for husband. Girls should not marry corpses, and Salicetti will be dead."

"I will have a word with Salicetti, and should he not prove pliable Etheria must get another for husband. Girls should not marry corpses, and Salicetti will be dead."

"Certainly, I am refreshed. Another cup of tea and I will go with you," cries the girl so eagerly that Barnes puts grateful eyes upon her, for he knows it is her spirit more—a hidden strength that produces her assent to further journey.

They are making hurried preparations to leave the cabin. Barnes is bending over the fire, brewing Marina's tea—their guns, and even the American's revolvers are lying in their belt on the pile of boughs near the entrance. Tomasso is saying: "Will I not astonish the men who swore a vendetta against you for my death! I who am alive and—and—" when suddenly Tomasso starts. There is a rat in his throat that causes Barnes to look hurriedly up. Marina has retreated to the corner of the cabin and Monaldi's eyes are full of horror.

Just across the fire from him stand two dark mountaineers. Rough, undressed sheepskins cover their brawny shoulders; long guns are in their hands and stilettoes in their belts. One is a big, powerful looking ruffian; the other slither, but his brown limbs lithe and sinewy. The eyes of both are shining menacingly in the blaze.

"Corp di diavolo, this is a rare catch you have made, hermit bandit, whose name we do not know," chuckles the bigger of the two men; "this American whose pockets Salicetti declared were lined with gold, he whom we waited for and missed in the vale below."

"Ah, you are Rochini and Romano, I believe from your speech, gentlemen," says Barnes quietly.

"Are that we are. And who is this woman of the beautiful eyes? Hand thy captives over to us, hermit bandit. Divide your spoils with us and we will save you the trouble of cutting the man's throat," jeers the slithering miscreant.

"As for the woman, the fire tell me she is very lovely both as to limbs and face, and I have a better use for her," snuffs the bigger man.

"And never was Marina more beautiful. She confronts the ruffians with undaunted mien, and says commandingly: 'Follow, dare to lay your hands on me and the whole of Bocognano will hunt you down. The Bellacoscia will destroy you. I am Marina Paoli!'"

"Oh, she is merry with us, this girl who runs after foreign gentlemen. Now we will show her that Corsican kisses are as good as those of this American."

Brutally they draw near to her. As the girl draws back from the contaminating clasp of the monsters, Tomasso, with a savage cry, and uplited stiletto, stands between them.

In a second the old man will be dead under their knives and the brave girl their prey. Marina's undaunted eyes, turned in appeal to the Americans, and with astonishment that he makes no move to aid her, but is abjectly squirming toward the cabin door. Suddenly she utters a gasp of despair and a sigh of contempt; this great pistol shot is running timely away, flying out of the cabin, though as she passes the pile of boughs he seizes the belt holding his two revolvers.

"He has the gold! After him!" cries Rochini.

"We'll knife him in a minute!" yells Romano, and the two Corsicans, their guns, fly after the dastard American.

But as they reach the door, the moment their athletic forms are outlined by the blaze of the fire, two quick, sharp pistol reports come from the outside, and Rochini and Romano, without even a cry, fall to the earth, inert and dead.

The smoke of Barnes' revolvers issues from them as he quietly re-enters and says apologetically: "I knew I wouldn't have time to grab my guns and shoot these fellows. But I imitated the trick of Jerry, the Denver barkeeper, and ran away till I could get my weapons ready."

A moment later he says: "Come!" and taking Marina earnestly by the arms, whispers: "Turn your face from them," and steps over the dead men lying in the entrance of the cabin.

Behind him Tomasso, following, carrying the American's rifle, is saying: "Oh, you will be worshipped in this country for this. So many poor men have been butchered, so many poor women have been carried away to the mountains by these dead devils."

But the reports have drawn others to the spot. As Barnes steps over the dead men lying in the entrance of the cabin, he suddenly says: "By heaven, here are more of them!" puts Marina down and would draw his revolvers were he not seized by the two athletic young fellows who rise silently from the shadows about them.

A clear, commanding voice remarks: "No more of Rochini and his fellows. You have used us the trouble of their killing. We are the Bellacoscia. Your pistol, stranger, have relieved us of the execution of these ruffians we were pursuing, and thus have credit on the honor of name of bandit."

And Tomasso is crying, "Antonio Bonelli," to a man of noble bearing, who, catching the hand, comes into the cabin followed by eight stalwart young men, all armed as he is.

But the young men fear the supernatural and stand back, their eyes gleaming, and one shudders: "The ghost of old Monaldi, killed by Do Belloc's troops two weeks ago." For a moment they would retreat, but their leader laughs at them and says: "The flesh and blood that is kissing my hand!"

And old Tomasso says: "You know how well the troopers shoot. Do you think they'd hit a man at 200 yards hiding behind a rock in the gloom of the morning?"

The plucky little Madisonville High School boys are willing to play the S. K. C. team, of this city. The Hustler says:

"The college team has asked for a date, and if details can be completed, they will be brought to this city. Now that the local boys have had the experience of a hard game, they will develop wonderfully, and if the same can be arranged for they will go in to win and will come out victorious."

The Second S. K. C. team will play the Madisonville High School team Madisonville to-day.

The S. W. P. U. team of Clarksville, will be here today to play a game with the S. K. C. football team, on the college gridiron. The game will be called at 2:30 p. m. The Clarksville bunch are heavyweights, averaging a good deal heavier than the locals, but the game will be one of skill and not of strength and the college boys are confident of victory. Tickets are 50 cents and can be had at Anderson-Fowler Co's.

The Hopkinsville High School team will go to Paducah to-day to play the Paducah High School (in their own gridiron). This team is constantly improving and has attained a degree of efficiency that makes them formidable, even in contests with heavier teams. The Paducah boys are liable to be given a surprise.

The Folly of Fat

Easily Overcome.

Margaret Knolly—slender Margaret Knolly, now, if you please—the fascinating lady of the Bijou, now more fascinating than ever, astonished all her friends on Broadway the other day by presenting to their admiring gaze a stout and willowy form in place of the plump, not to say fat, outlines with which she gaily sallied away to new triumphs and foreign shores last January. After a good deal of diplomatic cross examination from interested fat acquaintances the secret was cautiously whispered to a few dear friends, with the result that everybody knows it now. It was not exercise, nor fasting, nor sea air, nor worry about her new venture that had brought about this wonderful willowy change in the charming Margaret; no, none of these; nothing but a simple mixture which all druggists are familiar with and can supply at small cost, to-wit: One-half ounce Marmola, one-half ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and three and one-half ounces of Syrup Simplex. "Grown folks need a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime," explained the now slender Margaret. "It is simply wonderful. It takes off the fat quickly, as much as a pound a day, and keeps it off. You can eat what you like, too. In that respect it is unlike anything of the kind I ever heard of, and besides it has another splendid feature—it is entirely harmless, and will not cause wrinkles. I think it is about as essential a toilet article for the woman who is fat and wants to get thinner as face powder. In order to get the best results, however, you should buy the Marmola in the original package and mix it in with the other two ingredients after you get home."

Will Be Contests Pulled Off Every Day.

St. Louis, Oct. 18.—St. Louis is busily preparing for what she expects to be the greatest week in the history of the International Aeronautic Federation a week which is to open Monday, Oct. 21, at sunset with the race for the James Gordon Bennett cup, and the remaining days of which will be filled with contests between flying machines, balloons and aeroplanes of every size and description.

Nine balloons, three Americans, three German, two French and one English, are announced to start Monday at different times, one of the German teams leading off. Where they will land can only be conjectured, Griffith Brewer and the Hon. Claude Bradson, composing the English team, studied carefully last night the map showing the route taken by other aeromats who have ascended from St. Louis, and decided that the race probably would be off toward the northwest, and the prevailing winds are in that direction. The one going the greatest distance will win the cup, won last year in France by Lieut. Lahm.

On Tuesday, while the international balloon competition is still in progress, the races for gasless flying machines and heavier than air vehicles for the Scientific American cup will take place. There are eight entries in these contests, and the competitors will be required to traverse a triangular course about one mile in length.

The following day dirigible balloons will be the center of attraction, the seven contestants in this class being required to cover a mile course, the shape of which will be announced just before the start. Three entries in the aeroplane class will be allotted the next day. The dates set for the contests are subject to change if the weather is unfavorable, and it is expected that the entire week will be taken up with the antics of the strangest and most numerous assortment of air crafts ever gathered in one place.

Constitutional Amendment

The last Legislature passed an act, submitting an amendment to section 145 of the Kentucky Constitution relating to suffrage and elections disqualifying a class of voters as follows, (see Acts Kentucky Legislature 1906, pp. 303-4-5):

"Persons who have not, at least sixty days before the election at which they offer to vote, paid in full all State, county, municipal, district and school taxes due by them for the year previous to the one in which they offer to vote."

Under the provisions of the Constitution, this amendment will have to be ratified by a majority of the voters of the state, voting thereon, before it becomes, in fact, an amendment to the Constitution.

Mr. Willson in his speech here took a position against this very just and badly needed amendment. He would have people who refuse to pay their just proportion of the taxes controlling public affairs, even to voting bonded debts upon people who do pay. The Kentuckian is in favor of the amendment. We do not believe a man who beats the state out of taxes should have any right to vote. A vote for Willson is a vote for a man who favors government by those who would repudiate just obligations to the State. Can such a man be trusted?

SECOND STROKE

Of Paralysis Causes Death
In Few Hours.

Alexander Woody died at the asylum yesterday morning of paralysis. Mr. Woody, who was a prominent farmer of Crittenden county, suffered a stroke of paralysis about two years ago, from which he had fully recovered. Recently his mind became affected and he was brought to the asylum about three weeks ago for treatment. On Thursday he suffered another stroke and died in fifteen hours. He was 63 years old and leaves a family. One of his sons, T. J. Woody, came here yesterday and accompanied the remains to Marion last night. The interment will take place at Repton to-day.

THE INCANDESCENT St. Clair

This is by far the best and most economical heater in existence. It is absolutely air tight and will hold fire for 24 to 36 hours. Will burn slack as well as lump coal. The cut above shows the sectional fire pot with canted linings, an entirely new feature in heating stoves. All grades of soft and also slack coal can be burned in this fire pot without smoke or soot.
